

The School of The Built Environment was created as from 3rd of January 2006, following the restructuring of the former Faculty of Architecture, Design and Development. With over 70 staff and 1300 students we offer a unique range of educational opportunities spanning the diverse range of professions involved in the planning, design, construction, development, costing, valuation and management of our environment and infrastructure. Our driving philosophy is the promotion of effective training, education, relevant research and academic excellence in the built environment and related fields.
